This article is Part 4 of The Airbnb Series. Before you read this, check out Part 1, Part 2 and Part 3. Almost one year ago, I took the crazy leap into becoming an Airbnb and VRBO host. Since then, I've earned $28,268.35. I've met some fascinating people from around this world. And yes, I had one police visit. In this 4-part Airbnb Series, I've pulled back the curtain.

That lengthy, possibly-unnecessary and probably-tedious introduction is to explain the problem of the old hens. I've made a date in a few days to take my Cornish Cross chickens (which are outside in a temporary shelter, as pictured in this post) and probably about twenty of my old hens to the butcher.. Butchering the old hens-which range in ages from two to four or even five years old-is ...

4. Some Things Will Never Change. Out of his front windows George could see nothing except the sombre bulk of the warehouse across the street. It was an old building, with a bleak and ugly front of rusty, indurated brown and a harsh webbing of fire-escapes, and across the whole width of the facade stretched a battered wooden sign on which, in faded letters, one could make out the name--"The ...
