Anonymous said... Dan, This is a reasonable question in a world of hype. And there's enough hype in the Leadership Development community to take care of the rest of the world's population. Your post caused me to sit back and think about how we've somehow reached a "need for 'passion'" in order to be seen as competent and successful.

Definition. If a crime is caused by provocation, it is said to be committed in the heat of passion, under an irresistible urge incited by the provoking events, and without being entirely determined by reason. "' Malice aforethought' implies a mind under the sway of reason, whereas 'passion' whilst it does not imply a dethronement of reason, is the furor brevis, which renders a man deaf to the ...
