The Boys On Tracks Death

Till Death Do Us Part is the fourth studio album by the Houston gangsta rap group the Geto Boys, released in March 1993 on Rap-A-Lot Records. Rapper Willie D had left the group in 1992 temporarily to pursue a solo career. In his position, fellow Rap-A-Lot member Big Mike joined Scarface and Bushwick Bill for this album. Till Death Do Us Part became the group's first #1 on the R&B/hip hop charts ...

The Scottsboro Boys were nine African American teenagers, ages 13 to 20, falsely accused in Alabama of raping two white women on a train in 1931. The landmark set of legal cases from this incident dealt with racism and the right to a fair trial. The cases included a lynch mob before the suspects had been indicted, all-white juries, rushed trials, and disruptive mobs.

The apparent murder in Saline County in 1987 of seventeen-year-old Kevin Ives and sixteen-year-old Don Henry has spurred ongoing controversy, including conspiracy theories tying their deaths to a drug-smuggling scandal. The case was the subject of journalist Mara Leveritt's award-winning book The Boys on the Tracks. On Sunday, August 23, 1987, at around 4:00 a.m., the bodies of the two boys ...

You wrote 35 songs for "Boys for Pele," but only 18 of them made it onto the album. Even if you take into account all of the B-sides that you released during that era, it seems like there must be some songs that have never made it out of the vault. There might be a couple, but some things just weren't finished and some things moved into other songs as the years went on.

B Rap Boys is a side-scrolling arcade beat-em-up for up to three players, released in 1992 by Kaneko. It is the sequel to 1989's DJ Boy, which produced an interesting (if often very controversial) take on American street culture through a Japanese lens. It is also notable for having one of the first licenced soundtracks, and it's quite the banger.

NOTE: Carl Wilson was the first of the Beach Boys to put out an entire solo album. Although Brian Wilson had put out singles (the first being "Caroline No" from Pet Sounds) and Dennis Wilson had flirted with the idea over the years, Carl was the first to step out on his own, and this was after he had tired of the band's complacency in rehearsing for their live act.
