The Pleasures Of Damned Unknown

The Pleasures of the Damned. To his legions of fans, Charles Bukowski was—and remains—the quintessential counterculture icon. A hard-drinking wild man of literature and a stubborn outsider to the poetry world, he wrote unflinchingly about booze, work, and women, in raw, street-tough poems whose truth has struck a chord with generations of readers.

The most interesting thing about PLEASURES OF THE DAMNED is the opening text, which attempts to fool the viewer into thinking this is a lost Italian horror film directed by one 'Antonella Giallo'. Few genre fans will be convinced by the film itself, because the execution is extremely sloppy and the whole thing is an amateurish mash-up of horror ...
