Do-it-Yourself Incubator Ideas. As the promise of spring is creeping around the corner, some poultry lovers are ordering their chicks, poults and ducklings online from hatcheries, contacting breeders or (like me) calling all of farm supply stores to find out when their first chick delivery is. Other poultry lovers are filling their incubator to hatch out their new spring flock.

I honestly never knew there was such a thing as mock strawberries. Growing up in New Brunswick (Canada), we had tonnes of wild strawberries growing around our property in the countryside, and I have great memories of grazing on them like a black bear fattening up for winter. lol Unfortunately, having moved west to Alberta (north of Montana), I've never seen them here, which is truly a pity.

I've been meaning to write this post for quite a while now. I get asked all the time how to start a backyard chicken flock. There is so much information out there about chickenkeeping that it can, honestly, feel really overwhelming. I know I felt so intimidated by everything for so long, that I put off starting our flock for years because I wasn't sure I could do it.
