From the classic book on change by William Bridges, Managing Transitions, Making the Most of Change. I love this book! The primary model is "Endings, Transitions, and Beginnings", but the book is chock full of other useful tools, checklists, and models, including the "Marathon Effect". Individuals to senior managers always seem to be ...

Great Leadership: Which Change Model Should You Pick?

Lewin's Change Management Model. This change management model was created in the 1950s by psychologist Kurt Lewin. Lewin noted that the majority of people tend to prefer and operate within certain zones of safety. He recognized three stages of change: 1. Unfreeze - Most people make an active effort to resist change.

Three Types of Change Management Models - QuickBase, Inc.

The transtheoretical model of behavior change is an integrative theory of therapy that assesses an individual's readiness to act on a new healthier behavior, and provides strategies, or processes of change to guide the individual. The model is composed of constructs such as: stages of change, processes of change, levels of change, self-efficacy, and decisional balance.
