I'm standing at the kitchen counter of the cabin my husband built for us when we moved off-grid. It's over 90 degrees, it's approaching the lunch hour, and my three children, aged 1 - 6, are getting hungry. A set of red headed pigtails is at my side while I chop the mid-summer vegetables that need preserving - summer squash, cucumber, and a few green tomatoes that came off the vines ...

My grandmother, Ann D'Addario: A woman who trail blazed her way through a time when it was almost unheard of to have a job let alone a career. She was a buyer for a children's clothing store. Clothing children in style was her passion. A woman whose education did not go beyond high school taught us that education is one of your best assets and to strive to go as far as your mind will take you.
