Focusing on Damien Hirst's The Physical Impossibility of Death in the Mind of Someone Living 1991 which contains a preserved shark, this paper explores the longer cultural resonance of sharks as exemplars of the natural sublime. The paper argues that the shark, in Hirst's work and elsewhere, is a figure which intertwines an aesthetic of terrible nature with the capitalist sublime.

Numinous is defined in this encyclopedia as that which arouses "spiritual or religious emotion" or is "mysterious or awe-inspiring". As a concept especially connected with science fiction. George Mann suggests that this 'sense of wonder' is associated only with science fiction as distinct from science fantasy, stating: . It is this insistence on fundamental realism that has caused Verne's ...

“Western Buddhism” thus fits perfectly the fetishist mode of ideology in our allegedly “post-ideological” era, as opposed to its traditional symptomatic mode in which the ideological lie which structures our perception of reality is threatened by symptoms qua “returns of the repressed,” cracks in the fabric of the ideological lie. The fetish is effectively a kind of symptom in reverse.

The Negro race, like all races, is going to be saved by its exceptional men. The problem of education, then, among Negroes must first of all deal with the Talented Tenth; it is the problem of developing the Best of this race that they may guide the Mass away from the contamination and death of the Worst, in their own and other races. Now the training of men is a difficult and intricate task.

Immanuel Kant (1724-1804) Kant's most original contribution to philosophy is his "Copernican Revolution," that, as he puts it, it is the representation that makes the object possible rather than the object that makes the representation possible [§14, A92/B124, note]. This introduced the human mind as an active originator of experience rather than just a passive recipient of perception.

Despite his crucial insight, Schopenhauer missed a key point in his account of will and consciousness. Our capacity for inward knowing and all that attends this introspective capacity is more a case of feeling than intellect. We don't know ourselves as Selves, we feel it. In fact, consciousness is more a matter of emotion than thought, the latter actually being a derivative mode of the former.
