36 quotes from Morris L. West: 'If you spend your whole life waiting for the storm, you'll never enjoy the sunshine.', 'One has to abandon altogether the search for security, and reach out to the risk of living with both arms. One has to court doubt and darkness as the cost of knowing.', and 'I know what you are thinking - you need a sign. What better one could I give than to make this little ...

Morris L. West Quotes (Author of The Shoes of the Fisherman)

A powerful and challenging book overrides its transparent weaknesses. The theme, the setting, the dominant figures would seem to demand a vaster canvas; in the limitations of a novel there is sometimes a sense of crowding, almost of clutter. And yet — the reader, if he finds himself in sympathy with what West is attempting, is carried along — well beyond the scope of the book itself ...
