If you can believe it, we made it! After five fairly pointless outings of America's Lost Vikings, we have finally come to the sixth and final episode of this misbegotten series, the misnamed "The Alaska Enigma." I have relatively little to say about this episode except that until its final few minutes, it was distinctly out of character for the series in that it did not involve Vikings or ...

The Indus script (also known as the Harappan script) is a corpus of symbols produced by the Indus Valley Civilisation during the Kot Diji and Mature Harappan periods between 3500 and 1900 BCE. Most inscriptions containing these symbols are extremely short, making it difficult to judge whether or not these symbols constituted a script used to record a language, or even symbolise a writing system.
