In 1903, W. E. B. Du Bois said that racialism is the philosophical position that races existed, and that collective differences existed among such categories, the races. [citation needed] He further stated that racism required advancing the argument that one race is superior to other races of human beings. In In My Father's House (1992), Kwame Anthony Appiah summarized Du Bois's philosophical ...

Very very interesting. I have traveled extensively on 3 continents and am of European-American ancestry, but completely relate. The article makes me think of a quote by one of the Greek philosophers from the 5th century B.C [Socrates, I believe] about intellectuals [in general] : If one is a thinker or intellectual, one is neither an Athenian nor a Greek, but a citizen of the world.
