There is a fantastic video on youtube that Ken Larkin put together that breaks down 10 standard left hand patterns for piano. All of the patterns are played in the key of C, progressing from the C chord, to the F chord, to the G chord, back to the C chord. There is a bit of variance, but only the C, F, and G chords are used (I, IV, and V chords).

10 Standard Left Hand Patterns for Piano Explained

The piano is an acoustic, stringed musical instrument invented in Italy by Bartolomeo Cristofori around the year 1700 (the exact year is uncertain), in which the strings are struck by hammers. It is played using a keyboard, which is a row of keys (small levers) that the performer presses down or strikes with the fingers and thumbs of both hands to cause the hammers to strike the strings.

A piano is a delicate instrument that should be tuned at least once a year, preferably twice. At around $100 per tuning, this cost can add up pretty quickly. If you're tempted to tune your piano yourself, keep in mind this is a task that requires immense time and effort (you're talking about tuning 200+ strings as opposed to the 6 of a guitar), a strong ear, and a lot of patience.
