The concept of race as a rough division of anatomically modern humans (Homo sapiens) has a long and complicated history. The word race itself is modern and was used in the sense of "nation, ethnic group" during the 16th to 19th centuries and acquired its modern meaning in the field of physical anthropology only from the mid-19th century. The politicization of the field under the concept of ...

The geographic area currently known as Israel was originally known in the Bible as Canaan, but known as Phoenicia later. The area was named after the cursed son of Ham, because that is where he eventually settled after leaving Africa.. Canaan (the person) was cursed by Noah, to become a servant to his brothers, which explains why he left "the land of Ham", and moved to the Middle East.
