Downy mildew (Plasmopara viticola) affects many plants and appears as yellow to white patches on the upper surfaces of older leaves. On the undersides, these areas are covered with white to grayish, cotton-like fungi. These "downy" masses are most often noticed after rain or heavy dew and disappear soon after sunny weather resumes.

The plane is divided into four parts called quadrants. These are numbered in a counterclockwise direction starting at the upper right. Points on the plane are designated by ordered pairs of numbers written in parentheses with a comma between them, such as (5,7). This is called an ordered pair because the order in which the numbers are written is important.
