Property Tax Exemptions. A property tax exemption excludes all or part of a property's value from property taxation, ultimately resulting in lower property taxes. A "Partial" exemption excludes a part of the value from taxation and can exclude all of the value of a property from taxation if the exemption amount exceeds the market value (i.e., homestead exemption).

DCAD - Exemptions

School taxes: All residence homestead owners are allowed a $25,000 homestead exemption from their home's value for school taxes. County taxes: If a county collects a special tax for farm-to-market roads or flood control, a residence homestead is allowed to receive a $3,000 exemption for this tax.
