One manner in which to examine the deterioration of Gustav Von Aschenbach in Thomas Mann's Death in Venice is through the conflict of the Dionysian versus the Apollonian. Nietzsche first coined these terms in his work, The Birth of a Tragedy (Taylor). In Greek mythology, Dionysus is the God of the Earth and Apollo the God of the Sun. Therefore, the Apollonian elements are those such as form ...

Trajan was most conspicuous for his justice, for his bravery, and for the simplicity of his habits. He was strong in body, being in his forty-second year when he began to rule, so that in every enterprise he toiled almost as much as the others; and his mental powers were at their highest, so that he had neither the recklessness of youth nor the sluggishness of old age.
