"Lust?" As in passion? sex? craving? sensuality? longing? fervor? desire? Yes. The subject of Christopher Woods' new book Gardenlust is the unquenchable impulse of humankind to create gardens, an impulse expressed in diverse and multitudinous ways. It is "the force that through the green fuse drives the flower," but to my mind it is more about the force than about the flower.

Human Food. I love boudin noir, also known as blood sausage (or black pudding, if you're reading this from merry old England). It's rich and fatty and flavorful, and delicious when baked with apples and maple syrup. Yet my wife won't eat it. Why? Because it's made largely of blood and, like so many others in the West, she is accustomed to eating only muscles.

Biodynamic agriculture is a form of alternative agriculture very similar to organic farming, but it includes various esoteric concepts drawn from the ideas of Rudolf Steiner (1861-1925). Initially developed in 1924, it was the first of the organic agriculture movements. It treats soil fertility, plant growth, and livestock care as ecologically interrelated tasks, emphasizing spiritual and ...
