Till We Have Faces: A Myth Retold is a 1956 novel by C. S. Lewis. It is a retelling of Cupid and Psyche, based on its telling in a chapter of The Golden Ass of Apuleius. This story had haunted Lewis all his life, because he realized that some of the main characters' actions were illogical. As a consequence, his retelling of the story is characterized by a highly developed character, the narrator ...

It's fantastic to see local sports stars giving back to their communities that value them so much. There are youngsters all over the world that are disabled or unable to participate in sporting activities for whom a visit or some communication from a sports personality is a huge event that they would treasure for the rest of their lives.
