I don't typically post about books I didn't finish, and I don't want to make a big contrarian to-do about my having given up on Conversations With Friends, but it is what I've been reading lately and I have given up on it, so I might as well at least comment briefly on it here. I began the novel with some skepticism but also, as always, with the hope that I'd be pleasantly surprised.

"I am writing biography, not history, and the truth is that the most brilliant exploits often tell us nothing of the virtues or vices of the men who performed them, while on the other hand a chance remark or a joke may reveal far more of a man's character than the mere feat of winning battles in which thousands fall, or of marshalling great armies, or laying siege to cities."
